square. The general first read the situation from the whole company which was standing near the colors breaches in the ranks showing where the men were now prisoners in Germany or in Italy and Italy and Italy and Italy. The general congratulated the company saying "Occasions arise frequently in war and will arise frequently again where clear headed action is necessary. This company behaved on one occasion as was expected to and every company of American soldiers is expected to under similar conditions. The general commanding the sector considers these men have earned war crosses and I here deliver them to you. You must understand you now have them in your possession until Congress authorizes the wearing of them."

Berne, Nov. 27.—Switzerland has last attacked the problem of economizing its meagre coal supply. It has begun none too soon and apparently too late for Germany.

In anticipation of having to struggle along with 200,000 tons of coal or less a month, the Swiss government had cut to the bone the railroad traffic, raised rates and made it so difficult and so expensive to travel that one necessity is apt to induce a Swiss move from one part of his tiny country to another. The government also has issued drastic regulations governing the use of certain kinds of

It so Switzerland is trimming its economic sails as rapidly and as drastically as it may. It isn't the easiest task in the world, and is the hardest because there is political opposition to every move made by the government.

JOTS OF WISCONSIN GUARDSMEN'S DOINGS AT CAMP M'ARTHUR

By Sergeant Beard.
Camp MacArthur, Wyo., Tex., November 22.

We have just returned from the football game. This afternoon was devoted to athletics so Company M decided to play a game of football with a team from the 127th Infantry. Our team did not have but very little practice and lost out to an experienced team. The final score was 18 to 0. Time after time our team pushed the ball down the opponent's line but they lacked the strength to put the ball over. Another game is scheduled for next Saturday and Company "M" is going to win this game. We have been taking firsts in drilling, tactics, etc., and we are bound to take our share of firsts in athletics.

An inspection of guns and personal cleanliness was held at 11:15 this morning. The men have been keeping their guns in good shape considering the dust and dirt they have to contend with. We are going to keep our guns in the best of condition so we can make good use of them when we go across the ocean.

The Y.M.C.A. drive for funds has been in earnest in Camp MacArthur, $3,712 being secured the first day. Among subscriptions yesterday $400 from the camp MacArthur. It was also announced that Sanger Brothers (a local firm) had contributed $400 to the fund of $13,000 for Waco. Every soldier in the camp of the south are contributing their share. I hope that the Janesville "Y" and the people connected with that institution are receiving large sums toward this cause. The members of this company will never forget the good times we had in the "Y" pool while in service at the "Armory."

According to information furnished Tuesday by W. B. Kelsey of the war recreation board, it seems that the plan of having a soldier in each Waco home on Thanksgiving day will be carried out. Mr. Kelsey suggests that the date for having the soldier boys in the Waco homes be made the Sunday after Thanksgiving, which would be December 2.

I had that the war department and the military authorities make of Thanksgiving and Christmas day very special events, and that decidedly elaborate plans be made for the celebration of giving the men special attention on these days," said Mr. Kelsey Tuesday. "For that reason it would seem inadvisable to have the men in Waco homes on Thanksgiving day, although the suggestion and the plan do the people of Waco credit. If they will just change the plan and make it date the Sunday after Thanksgiving, it will be like celebrating Thanksgiving, and yet will enable the men to get the benefit of the plans laid for them Thanksgiving day by the government. One feature of which is a fine menu for the day. Soldier boys always like to eat as the many people will testify that ever see us out at meals there. This example is a fine thing to show the hospitality that is afforded us by the people of Waco during our stay in their city."

The detail for today was as follows: In charge of quarters, Corporal McDermott; Corporal Smith, Private W. Bilven, McKinney, Chesak, G. Christensen, Ellis R. Mulligan, G. Bates, E. L. Lano, H. H. Holden, J. H. Johnson, Mason, McCool, Kitchen police, Privates O'Brien, Severson, Jacobson, Jorgensen, and Larson.

Company and Camp Notes.
Private Björke and Boesel were working on special detail at the Supply Company today.

Private 1st Class O'Connor tells me that he wished he would receive a little more. Fleming (as the boys call him) found himself out in the middle of the street the other night taking a midnight ride on his cot. Corporal Hallenbeck contributed this bit of news.

Private Harry McCann has become rather musical lately, after practicing on Berg's trombone. Berg now keeps his trombone hung up near the top of his tent so no one can use it. "Single Wing" Whitford was knocked down the other day by one "Mick" Condon in a three round boxing match. Elford Mable, otherwise known as "Big Horse" bought a white collar the other evening in order to look dressed up when he heard the telephone bell ringing in the distance. Never mind old boy, you are not home now, so you can go fussing in the evening.

Sergeant McDermott and Cook Kueck entertained a crowd of ladies for supper the other evening.
Private Hilton is getting to be an expert wood cutter. The proof of this is the Company's wood pile which is rapidly diminishing.

The other evening upon returning to his bunk Private Trescher found a pair of shoes, a pick ax, wire nippers, saws, bottles and some "Unburned Ashes" under his tick. Some mattress. A few minutes later Private Loucks came strolling in and found his cot turned upside down. "Such is life," he said, "they let a fellow sleep in ease, are the words of the two men."

Private Gunnes received a 72 page letter, sent from someone (?) Oh You Addie!

Private Murphy is thinking of transferring to the aviation school. Look out Murphy, one foot on the ground remember!

The other night when the lights were out and the Company was lined up for mess Privates 1st Class Sartell called out, "Light foot tonight," so we can see.

Corporal Jordan received another package the other day. The corps had begun to think that the people back home had forgotten him.

The Jass Band composed of Private Maine (comb tenor), Private McCool, mandolin, and Private McDonald, on the drums, gave a concert in tent No. 16 other evening which was enjoyed by the members of tent numbers 15 and 17.

Private E. Peterson has been off the street for a week. What is going to happen? Poor "Pete" has had the misfortune to be confined to the street for nearly all the time he has been here.

Private (Abbie) Neher put on an exhibition of the Hebrew act the other evening.

Private 1st Class Emil Schultz is getting fat on the Captain's pancakes these days.

Private C. Stiff is very lonesome and wants more mail from someone. (?) We wonder who she is. Don't be beautiful, now Clarence.

Sergeant Novaski has received his first box of candy since he arrived in Waco. The Sergeant has a sweet tooth and likes to receive the goodies.

Sergeant Clarke and George Ogden would like very much if some kind party would send them a few sweets.

Second Lieutenant in the stead of Lieutenant Schwaube who had an operation for appendicitis. Ellingson will receive his commission as a second lieutenant soon, and is now wearing leather puttees and a nice new serge uniform.

Last evening Sergeant Kamps, Supply Sergeant, sent out one new blanket to each man, making a total of three blankets in the possession of every man.

Mechanic Thiele would like a new pair of breeches as his are out at the knees. He also tells us that his best girl had forgotten him and has forgotten to write to him.

Wesley, a fellow from the mechanic, was soaking his feet in a pan of water last evening. When asked his ailment he said, "I have the mumps."

Bugler Hayes has turned his face against the army. He is now acting as a messenger boy for good money and still tells us that he is going to get rich in the army.

The other evening Corporal Hansen was smoked out of his tent by Corporal Larson. Corporal Hansen is now handling the agency for the "Camp Bugle."

Private William Trescher and Corporal Hansen are on special detail at the Division Headquarters working in the clerical department. This is very nice work and the men are enjoying it very much.

Corporal Guy Orden, Corporal Meyers, Corporal Matthew Ryan, Corporal Larsen and Sergeant Clarke are taking up work at the hand grenade school.

Private Herbert Nichols, Corporal Short, Walter Meyers, Alie Peterson, Evan Norgord, Ted McCarthy are taking up work at the wire entanglements school. They are getting pretty good in this work and are now able to put up an entanglement and take it down in no time at all.

Corporal Larsen is so hard up for matches these days that he is lighting his pipe by ashes picked up from the stove in his tent. Hard times, old man.

Private Thorman sold his hat the other day for three dollars. An order was issued that no Stetsons could be worn so consequently Thorman had to dispose of his new lid.

Corporal Nelson is getting along nicely after breaking his ankle going over in the trenches about a week or so ago.

Corporal Flynn is convalescing after a few days' sickness. Corporal Flynn is a bayonet instructor and he was missed out on the drill field today.

Private Evan Norgord has started a pawn shop and is making a lot of "kale" these days.

Private 1st Class Sartell, Corporal Hallenbeck, Corporal Corrado, Corporal Swanson are taking up musketry and are learning to draw everything except to "draw on a bank."

Corporal Guy Ogden is worrying night and day on a new bomb he is trying to invent. Good luck to you, Corporal.

Private Brown is getting hard up for money these days and raffled his musical instrument the other day.

Private Johnson and Corporal Swanson had a tussle the other evening and broke down Private Beinema's cot.

Beinema doesn't care as long as he receives enough mail.
Private Ed. Joholski used to receive about sixteen letters a week but something has happened to his friends that they seem to have forgotten him a little bit. He has not heard from them for some time. They will hope for yet for some day they will realize that the little boy has gone to France and no one knows how soon he will return. Mamma! Mamma! Private Earl Smith is getting rather flaky and has acquired the names of "John Bunny" and "Violet." We are trying to figure out who "Violet" is.
Private Burns is feeding up on pancakes down here but he tells us that the only trouble is that he does not get enough of them.

REVIVAL SERVICES

PROVING SUCCESSFUL

Nearly One Hundred Young People Join Methodist Church as a Result of Revival Meetings.

All who attended the Methodist church Sunday witnessed the greatest response to the religious work of the church that has been seen in Janesville in many years. At the morning service the house was filled and the large chorus under the direction of Lillian Stevens rendered great service. The pastor, Rev. Franklin P. Lewis, preached for his sermon, "The Healing of the Nations." Emphasizing the four things the nations of the earth needed to be healed from: To be healed from poverty, to be healed from disease, to be healed from intellectual incompetency, and healed from moral and spiritual unhappiness. He said that basis for all these things was the Christian life and the service that followed in the decision day work of the Sunday school was climatic of the morning services. At this service nearly one hundred young people came forward and took their stand on the platform, declaring their acceptance of Jesus Christ as their Saviour and desiring to be received into the membership of the church. This was an inspirational service and it witnessed so many of the young people turning to the church promises a great future for Cargill church in this city.

The evening service beginning at 7:30 closed the work of the day with the church taxed to its capacity. The large chorus sang the gospel songs made famous by Banker, Bliss, Alexander and others. At the close of the service many others came forward to begin the Christian life and unite with the church. After the benediction the people seemed loath to leave and tarried to hear the chorus sing some after song. The service will be held tonight at 7:30 and will be neighbors' night. At this service every member of the church is expected to invite his neighbors to come with him to the meeting. The song service lasts for about a half hour. The chorus is well worth hearing. No more spirited leader has ever been in Janesville than Miss Stevens. The church has placed a temporary platform to accommodate the large chorus and there has been scarcely a night that every seat in the choir loft has not been filled. Last night was children's night, and while the evening was stormy a large number was out to the service. The meetings will continue every night during the week except Saturday.

FORETOLD WAR?

There has been so much said and written relative to the fact that Germany did not look war with the United States that it is a bit interesting to look back through the pages of German history and find what the true sentiment of the German statesmen of the last few decades as to America. The following excerpt from a communication received some weeks ago gives a peculiar citation that should settle the question for good and all. The letter referred to says:

"In doing some reading this summer I ran across the following account. You will note from this article that it is an answer to many of those who maintain that our war with Germany simply came as an 'afterthought' and that it was not the intention of Germany to become involved in a way with the affairs of the United States.

"This quotation was spoken by Bismarck. It can be found in 'Conversations with Prince Bismarck' collected by Heinrich von Poschinger.

"In estimating future events we must keep an eye on the United States of America, for they may develop into a danger to Europe in economic affairs, possibly also in others, at present wholly unexpected by most of us. In the future the one cannot be separated from the other. The war of the future is the economic war, the struggle for existence on a grand scale. May my successors always bear this in mind, and take care when this struggle comes that we are prepared for it."

As President Wilson particularly emphasized when this war came that the United States was not fighting the German people, but the German autocratic government. But as one would expect, this is not the whole story. Look at this. This battle paper says we must fight the German people, but Lawford, if we believe, who the 'ell else me this blood old wound? We must not officially be fighting the German people, but they are fighting us and we them, and will be until the autocratic government at Berlin is beaten to its knees.

Up to now the German emperor has laughed at the United States' part in this war, but the type of the Red Cross, the cross of the million young men training in various camps and the half million odd men now in Europe under arms, has opened the eyes of the German people and the emperor must look sharp or some Yankee will get him.

REASON FOR PRIDE.

Rock county has every reason to be proud of every one of its sons who have answered the call to the colors. In this hour of national stress, of the young men who went down to the sea in ships, who seek to fly in the air, who will stand back the orders from the front, the boys in the trenches, the cavalrymen, the artillery men, the boys who enlisted in the regular army, those who went out with the national guard and the later regulars, the national army men, are all making good. Today we welcome back the boys who have completed their training camp at Ft. Sheridan and have won commissions to lead and instruct others in military matters. Not a man who went from Rock county seeking to do his bit in this last officers' training camp but comes back to us with the shoulder strap of a commissioned officer. It is most gratifying to hear, long three months, into which the military training of four years at West Point has been crowded, that some men fail to imitate even with four years of college.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving day, and on this day of prayer and family gatherings let there be a word said for every one of our soldiers and sailors, army or in whatever capacity they are serving. A word of commendation and praise and one also of satisfaction that here, our chosen sons, are doing their duty at the front, just as the mothers and sisters and sweethearts are doing theirs at home. We have Rock county boys over in France, and when called upon they will do their "bit" and we shall be prouder still. There are men who may eat their Christmas dinner in France this year. Today they are on American soil, and let us hope that those who stay at home will not forget them in a prayer to aid them spiritually just as the dollars and cents we have subscribed for the various war activities will aid them to material comforts.

THE DRAFT QUESTIONNAIRE.

It is now up to nine million young men of military age to answer the questions the United States government puts them about their suitability for military service. It will be interesting to see how the blank forms come back in the two districts of Rock county. Many fellows who left school early never before sat down to answer any kind of a written examination. There will be great corrections before the twenty-six or more answers are set down in black and white.

To some men the form will seem needlessly complicated. But there is no other way to get a thorough survey of conditions in each instance. The first set of exemption cases had to be handled in a very hasty way. The country demanded the immediate assembly of a great army. There was little time for deliberation or investigation. No doubt some who should have served, managed to get exemptions. And some who should have remained at home were forced to go.

Now there will be somewhat more time for discrimination. Every man should take pains to answer his questions intelligently. If he doesn't understand them, he can't make out a legible paper, he can't secure help. Many of course will seek to dodge service for insufficient grounds. It will be a risky thing to try to deceive. The exemption boards should be slow to take the unsupported word of unknown men. Unless a man has a positive reputation for truth telling, independent investigation of his statements will be desirable.

This is not a time when government officials can be trifled with. The man who answers the questions squarely and sincerely will avoid trouble. He will have the satisfaction whatever happens that he did his duty.

The Germans aren't alarmed over our big air fleet, as they have it straight from Kaiser Bill that American boys never dare ride in anything more sporty than a farmer's buggy. These opera stars who came over here for more money, but who can't sing the national anthem, of course look down on the Americans as mere dollar chasers.

After allowing the oppressed of all nations to come to this country, some of these oppressed turn around and burn our supplies, send off deadly bombs, and murder people who buy Liberty bonds.

Although many hard working people have had to go without sugar in their coffee and bread, yet it is not reported that any of the ice cream soda joints have had to shut down.

From the way the Russians drink in the representations of the German spies, it is evident that the green goods and shell game men's own place has been located at last.

The people who put out a lot of talk favorable to Germany, where the people are held down by tyranny, are usually the same ones who claim to be the apostles of popular rights.

The people who strike and tie up war work won't look quite so pretty when they come around to the legislature and want a lot of favorable labor laws passed.

When our young women friends begin to spell their names Mabelle, Kathryn, and Ethyl, it is hard to believe them when they say they like the simple life.

It is still possible to enjoy a very Thankful Thanksgiving, without having a turkey big enough to feed an orphan asylum on.

Great Lakes naval station boys dispose of four thousand pies at a meal. Mother must be doing the cooking.

To spring on the Germans and pay them for their frightfulness.

We do not often deal in frightfulness ourselves.

But in this case we think it is merited. The lieutenant has a plan to equip American soldiers.

On the western front with ukuleles. When they make a dash, playing their ukuleles.

The flight of the German army will take place.

And the punishment will be as horrible.

As anyone could wish.

We have heard that airplanes will win the war.

That food will win the war.

That submarine chasers will win the war.

But, in the final analysis, ukuleles will win the war.

They will not only settle the present difficulty.

But will pay up an old score.

The ukulele campaign will serve the Germans jolly.

Well right, for making us listen to Wagner opera.

All these years.

The government informs us that the pennies are very scarce, and they are the very things Mr. Rockefeller has always advised us to save.

Even at that the pennies will probably never be scarce as the two dollar bills.

Those who are familiar with the mining-camp architecture of Broadway believe that Broadway looks much better with the lights under the new order, than it did before.

ABSURD.

Last night I lay a-dreaming, I had a dream so full of living, I had fallen—everywhere.

And while I was a-dreaming, And no one was around, I bought an old-time porterhouse at twenty cents a pound.

A PIKER.

Oh, what has become of the old-fashioned Jones Villa.

Who used to get killed every day, That dead-or-alive we set Pershing after.

Who was the first page made his play?

How awful he seemed, this chief of the bandits.

BIBLE PICTURE QUERY—29

What Biscuit of Modern Use Is Mentioned in the Bible?

Curious and Unusual Bible Questions

Look at the picture above, then turn to your Bible and find the answer to the question. The picture illustrates the verse in which the answer will be found.

Each week we will publish an illustrated question from the Bible and the following week publish the answer. See if you can find the answer before we publish it! Make a family pastime of this interesting feature—it will amuse and instruct you.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "Where in the Bible is first mentioned a people ruled by a woman?" This is answered in Judges, Chapter 4, Verses 4, 5:

"And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lappidoth, she judged Israel at that time. And she dwelt under the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Bethel in mount Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment."

SULTAN'S YOUNGER SON SUCCEEDS TO EGYPTIAN THRONE

The new Sultan of Egypt, Prince Ahmad Fuad, is the younger son of the late Sultan Hussein Kamil and has succeeded to the throne after the older son had renounced the position of sultan in a letter to his father. The new sultan was educated chiefly in Italy and though at one time he was a candidate for the Albanian throne he preferred to devote himself to Egyptian interests.

News Notes from Movieland

Crane Wilbur is very much in the limelight in and around San Francisco. He is starred in the Paul Smith production, "The Finger of Justice," which is booked for several weeks in the Golden Gate City. He worked in the Golden Gate City. He addressed a meeting of ministers, was called on to give an address from the pulpit, made a personal appearance on the first night of the feature, and is drawing full houses to the Bishop theatre in Oakland, where he has a special stage engagement between pictures. That is all!

CHAPLIN
The First National Exhibitor's Circuit, which controls the forthcoming Chaplin comedies, has raised the price for one day's rental from $50 to $100. The producers justify the increase by the explanation that they are paying the comedian a third more than the company which produced his comedies last year and are to receive only eight instead of twelve percent. As more time is to be put on the production of each, a yet higher quality is promised.

Exhibitors, protesting the increase in price, are holding back. Chaplin has returned to his studio work after a brief vacation in Hawaii.

Billie Rhodes heard a funny noise in a hollow tree not far from her home, and undertook to find out the cause. She found a "bee tree." She tried to smoke the bees out by burning half a pound of smoking tobacco in a hole at the base of the tree and succeeded so well that for a week Miss Rhodes stayed at home while her maid applied cooling embrocation where they were most needed. Miss Rhodes insists that the joke was on the bees, for when the tree was cut down she found eighty pounds of brown honey.

MYERS THEATRE.

The Priest and Miller companion play to the "Bird of Paradise." "The Tidal Wave," is richly deserving of the just comment of both press and public. They both join in saying that "The Tidal Wave" is indeed the season's success. As a scenic production, it surpasses its companion, "The Bird of Paradise." The company of Royal Hawaiians who appear in the second and third acts are Hawaiians and most accomplished singers, Hula dancers and musicians. At the Myers theatre tomorrow night.

Arion Fairfax is now writing for screen. Maxine Elliot is now preparing for the camera. It was Marion wrote Maxine's great success in 1908, "The Chaperon."

regains in almost every line are found daily in the classified ads.

The Famous Players Company usually calls attention to the little known fact that "Tiger Rose," before it reached the stage as a regular play, was a film. In its movie incarnation it was called "Nanette of the Wilds" and Pauline Frederick was its star. Willard Mack, the author, played the same role in the film that he is now playing on Broadway.

The public has almost completely withdrawn its support from these unreal and silly roles known as "vampires." All that's left for the actresses who have been identified with them is historical or classic roles of a somewhat similar sort. Theda Bara, who was shown recently in "Camille" and soon is to impersonate Cleopatra, will follow that with an impersonation of Du Barry.

France, Egypt and America all are pictured in Eisle Ferguson's next movie, "The Rise of Jennie Cushing."

Norma Talmadge and Stuart Holmes will appear together in a picture version of the Rupert Hughes drama, "Two Women."

MOTHERS, DO THIS—

When the Children Cough,
Rub Musterole on Throats and Chests

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt, sure relief. It does not blister. As first aid, and a certain remedy. Musterole is excellent. Thousands of mothers know it. You should keep a jar in the house, ready for instant use. It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frost-bite and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). 30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Try Making Your Own
Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare. Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (60 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 65 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils. This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right to the cause of the cough, and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., St. Albans, Ind.

Lima, Ohio. — "I was all broken down in health from a displacement. One of my lady friends came to see me and she advised me to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sarsaparilla. I began taking your remedies and took $5.00 worth and in two months was a well woman after three doctors said I never would stand up straight again. I was a midwife for seven years and recommended the Vegetable Compound to every woman to take before birth and afterwards, and they all got along so nicely that it surely is a godsend to suffering women. If women wish to write to me I will be delighted to answer them." — Mrs. JENNIE MOYER, 342 E. North St., Lima, Ohio.

Khyber
Rifles

A Romance of Adventure

By TALBOT MUNDY

(Copyright by Bobbie-Merrill Company)

The Pathan next King leaped over to whisper to him again, but stiffened in the act. There was a great gasp the same instant, as the whole crowd caught its breath all together. The mullah in the middle froze into immobility. Bull-with-a-beard stood numbing, swaying his great head from side to side, no longer suggestive of a bear about to charge, but of one who hesitates.

The crowd was staring at the end of the bridge. King stared, too, and caught his own breath. For Yasmini stood there, smiling on them all as the new moon smiles down on the Khyber. She had come among them like a spirit, all unheeded.

So much more beautiful than the one King had seen of her that for a second he forgot what she was, and stood there, human and warm and real, who had been to him a myth, clad in gauzy silk transparent stuff that made no secret of sylphlike shapeliness and looking nearly light enough to blow away. Her feet—and they were the most marvelous—molded things he had ever seen—were naked and played restlessly on the naked stone. Not one part of her was still for a fraction of a second; yet the whole effect was of insensitely lazy ease.

Her eyes blazed brighter than the little jewels stitched to her gossamer dress, and when a man once looked at them he did not find it easy to look away again. Even mullah Muhammad Aalam seemed transfixed, like a great foolish animal.

But King was staring very hard indeed at something else—mentally cursing the plain glass spectacles he wore, that had begun to film over and dim his vision. There were two bracelets on her arm, both barbaric things of solid gold. The smaller of the two was on her wrist and the larger on her upper arm, but they were so alike, except for size, and so exactly like the one Rewa Gunga had given him in her name and that had been stolen from him in the night, that he ran the risk of removing the glasses a moment to stare with unimpeded eyes. Even then the distance was too great. He could not quite see.

But her eyes began to search the crowd in his direction, and then he knew two things absolutely. He was sitting where she had ordered Ismail to place him; for she picked him out almost instantly, and laughed as if somebody had struck a silver bell. And one of these bracelets was the one that he had worn; for she flaunted it at him, moving her arm so that the light should make the gold glitter.

Then, perhaps because the crowd had begun to whisper, and she wanted all attention, she raised both arms to toss back the golden hair that came cascading nearly to her knees. And as if the crowd knew that symptom well, it drew its breath in sharply and grew very still.

"Muhammad Aalam!" she said, and she might have been wooing him. "That was a devil's trick!"

It was rather an astounding statement, coming from lovely lips in such a setting. It was rather suggestive of a driver's whiplash, flicked through the air for a beginning. Muhammad Aalam continued glaring and did not answer her, so in her own good time, when she had tossed her golden hair back once or twice again, she developed her meaning.

"We who are free of Khinjan caves do not send men out to bring recruits. We know better than to bid our men tell lies for others at the gate. Nor, seeking proof for our new recruits, do we send men to hunt a head for him—not even those of us who have a lashkar that we call our own, mullah Muhammad Aalam! Each of us earns his own way in!"

breathed hard and watched. The mullah muttered something in his beard, and sat down, and the crowd began to roar applause at her. But she checked it with a regal gesture, and a glance of contempt at the mullah that was alone worth a journey across the "Hills" to see.

"Guards!" she said quietly. And the crowd's sigh then was like the night wind in a forest.

"Away with those three of Muhammad Aalam's men!"

Twelve of the arena guards threw down their shields with a sudden clatter and seized the prisoners, four to each. The crowd shimmered with delicious anticipation. The doomed men neither struggled nor cried, for fatalism is an anodyne as well as an explosive. King set his teeth. Yasmini, with both hands behind her head, continued to smile down on them all as sweetly as the stars shine on a battlefield.

She nodded once, and then she was over in a minute. With a ringing "Ho!" and a run, the guards lifted their victims shoulder high and bore them forward. At the river bank they paused for a second to swing them. Then, with another "Ho!" they threw them like dead rubbish into the swift black water.

There was only one wild scream that went echoing and re-echoing to the roof. There was scarcely a splash, and no extra ripple at all. No hands came up again to gasp. No fingers clutched at the surface. The fearful speed of the river sucked them under, to grind and churn and pound them through long caverns underground and hurl them at last over the great cataract toward the middle of the world.

"Ah-h-h-h!" sighed the crowd in ecstasy.

"Is there no other stranger?" asked Yasmini, searching for King again with her amazing eyes. The skin all down his back turned there and then into gooseflesh. And as her eyes met his she laughed like a bell at him. She knew! She knew who he was, how he had entered, and how he felt. Not a doubt of it!

CHAPTER XIV.

"Kurram Khan!" the lashless mullah howled, like a lone wolf in the moonlight, and King stood up. In that grim minute he managed to seem about as much at ease as a native hakim ought to feel at such an initiation.

"Come forward!" the mullah howled, and he obeyed, trading gingerly between men who were at no pains to let him by, and silently blessing them, because he was not really in any hurry at all. Yasmini looked lovely from a distance, and life was sweet.

"Who are his witnesses?"

"I!" shouted Ismail, jumping up.

"I!" cracked the roof. "I!" So that for a second King almost believed he had a crowd of men to swear for him and did not hear Darya Khan at all, who rose from a place not very far behind where he had sat.

Ismail followed him in a hurry, like a man wading a river with loose clothes gathered in one arm and the other arm ready in case of falling.

Corn Pain
Stopped Quick

Corns Lift Right Off With
"Gets-It"

Healed roller from corn pains is simple as A. B. C. with "Gets-It". When you're being jumped around for days trying to get away from a heart-dribbling corn or bumpy callus, and everything you've tried has only made it worse, and then you put some "Gets-It" on and the pain eases right away, and the corn peels right off like a banana skin—"aint it a grand and heavenly feeling?" "Gets-It" is revolutionized the corn history of the world. Millions use it and it never fails. Ladies wear smaller shoes and young fellows forget our toes and feel frisky as colts. Everybody with a corn or callus needs "Gets-It". We will all walk about and enjoy ourselves as we did without corns. Get a bottle today from your druggist, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.; 25c is all you need to pay.

Sold in Janesville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Smith Drug Co., McCue & Buse, J. P. Baker, W. T. Shearer.

Darya Khan did not go so fast. As he forced his way forward a man passed him up the wooden box that King had used to stand on; he seized it in both hands with a grin and a jest and went to stand behind King and Ismail, to line with the lashless mullah, facing Yasmini. Yasmini smiled at them all as if they were actors in her comedy, and she well pleased with them.

"Look ye!" howled the mullah. "Look ye and look well, for this is to be one of us!"

King felt ten thousand eyes burn down his back, but the one pair of eyes that mocked him from the bridge was more disconcerting.

"Turn, Kurram Khan! Turn that way!" King said.

Feeling like a man on a spit, he revolved slowly. By the time he had turned once completely around he had decided that Yasmini meant he should be frightened, but not much hurt just yet. So he ceased altogether to feel frightened and took care to look more scared than ever.

"Speak, Kurram Khan!" Yasmini purred, smiling her loveliest. "Tell them whom you slew."

King turned and faced the crowd, raising himself on the balls of his feet to shout, like a man facing thousands of troops on parade. He nearly gave himself away, for habit had him unawares. A native hakim, given the stoniest lungs in all India, would not have shouted in that way.

"Capitain Attleystan, King!" he roared, and he nearly jumped out of his skin when his own voice came rattling back at him from the roof overhead.

Yasmini chuckled at a little rill will sometimes chuckle among ferns. It was devilish. It seemed to say there were traps not far ahead.

"Where was he slain?" asked the mullah.

"In the Khyber pass," said King.

The Crowd Was Growing Impatient.

"Throw It! Throw It!"

"Now give proof!" said the mullah. "Words at the gate—proof in the cavern! Without good proof, there is only one way out of here!"

"Proof!" the crowd thundered. "Proof!" the crowd echoed.

There was no need for Darya Khan to whisper. King's hands were behind him, and he had seen what he had seen and guessed what he had guessed while he was turning to let the crowd look at him. His fingers closed on human hair.

"Nay, it is short!" hissed Darya Khan. "Take the two ears, or hold it by the jawbone! Hold it high in both hands!"

King obeyed, without looking at the thing, and Ismail, turning to face the crowd, rose on tiptoe and filled his lungs for the effort of his life.

"The head of Capitain Attleystan King—Indel—kafir—British arrfcer!" he howled.

"Good!" the crowd bellowed. "Good! Throw it!"

The crowd's roar and the roof's echoes combined in pandemonium.

"Throw it to them, Kurram Khan!" Yasmini purred from the bridge end, speaking as softly and as sweetly as if she coaxed a child. "It is the custom!"

"Throw it! Throw it!" the crowd thundered.

He turned the ghastly thing until it was face-upward in his hands, and so at last he saw it. He caught his breath, and only the horn-rimmed spectacles, that he had cursed twice that night, saved him from self-betrayal. The cavern seemed to sway as he looked into the dead face of his brother Charles.

If Yasmini detected his nervousness she gave no sign.

"Throw It! Throw It! Throw It!" The crowd was growing impatient. Many men were standing, waving their arms to draw attention to themselves. Catching Yasmini's eyes, he knew it had not entered her head that he might disobey.

He looked past her toward the river. There were no guards near enough to prevent what he intended; but he had to bear in mind that the guards had rifles, and if he noted too suddenly one of them might shoot at him unbidden. Holding the head before him with both hands, he began to walk toward the river, edging all the while a little toward the crowd as if meaning to get nearer before he threw. He reached the river and stood there.

His next move made every savage who watched him gasp because of its very unexpectedness. He held the head in both hands, threw it far out into the river and stood to watch it sink. Then, without visible emotion of any kind, he walked back stolidly to face Yasmini at the bridge end, with shoulders a little more stubborn now than they ought to be, and chin a shade too high, for there never was a man who could act quite perfectly.

"Thou fool!" Yasmini whispered through lips that did not move. She betrayed a flash of temper like a trapped she-tiger's, but followed it instantly with her loveliest smile.

"Slay him!" yelled a lone voice, that was greeted by an approving murmur.

"This is a durbur!" Yasmini announced in a rising, ringing voice. "My durbur, for I summoned it! Did I invite any man to speak?"

There was silence, as a whipped unwilling pack is silent.

"Speak, thou Kurram Khan! Tell them why!" she said, smiling. No man could have guessed by the tone of her voice whether she was for him or against him, and the crowd, beginning again to whisper, watched to see which way the cat would jump.

Dinner Stories

"Where have you been tonight?" she asked bitterly, as he sauntered in about 11 o'clock. "Was it business again this evening?"

He made no reply but sat down to the cold supper that was on the table.

"Ah, the difference in a short time," she went on. "I have been trying to sojourn myself tonight by reading some of your love letters. Here is one."

"Holding it up," "that you wrote one month before we were married; in this you say that you feel as if you could eat me. Oh, the affection the passionate love expressed by those words!"

"It is one month after marriage," she continued, beginning to weep pearly tears, and sob like the throb of a steamboat engine, "only one month after marriage, and now—"

"I wish to goodness I had!" mumbled the unfeeling brute, with his mouth full of ham.

A camera man, working for the educational department of a film company, met an old farmer coming out of a house in town where he had been working and explained his presence in these words:

"I have been taking some moving pictures of life out on your farm."

"Did you catch any of my laborers in motion?" asked the old man.

"Sure, I did," replied the camera man.

The farmer shook his head reflectively, then said: "Science is a wonderful thing."

"Mamma, where do the cows get their milk?" asked little Willie, looking up from the foaming pan of milk which he had been intently regarding.

"Where do you get your tears?" was the answer.

After a thoughtful silence he asked: "Mamma, do cows have to be spanked?"

KIDNEY TROUBLE NOT EASILY RECOGNIZED

Application For Insurance Often Rejected.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

We find that Swamp-Root is an herbal compound and we would advise our readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

Diary and English-French Dictionary

Self-Pronouncing by Sound-Spelling Method

Newspapers of the United States and Canada have arranged to supply the Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary to all branches of the service. Distribution in this city will be made exclusively by the

The Janesville Daily Gazette

THE DIARY

This DIARY fixes the time and place of important, pleasing, tragic or humorous events.

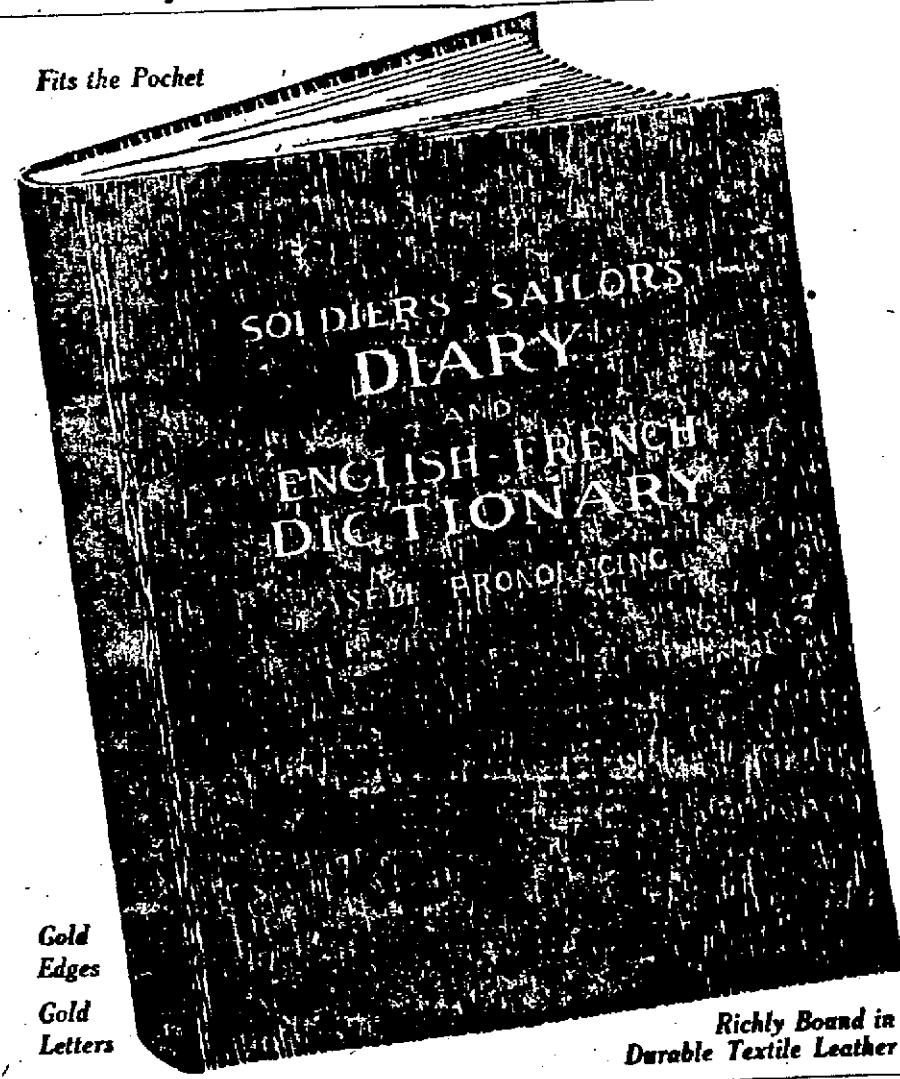

New experiences, new scenes, new friends—sea fights, land battles, camp life, trench duty, marches—all rush with confusion into the minds of soldiers and sailors. A daily note in the DIARY will retain for use in after years the happenings of this epoch-making period.

When the boy comes marching home his DIARY will recall scenes of battle, exciting charges and days filled with all emotions from rage and terror to sport and laughter. Many a soul-thrilling scene would be forgotten if it were not recorded while fresh in memory.

Few persons in this war will remember all they see unless the main points of each event are noted in a DIARY every day. No memory can be trusted to record accurately names, dates, places, etc., except when aided by written evidence.

Every soldier, sailor, nurse or civilian, seeing the war from individual viewpoints, should set down each day's experiences. For this need the SOLDIERS-SAILORS DIARY AND ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY is the most serviceable, most durable, most compact book ever published. On land and sea it will be a most cherished possession.

Fits the Pocket

Gold Letters

Richly Bound in Durable Textile Leather

THE DICTIONARY

The Sound-spelling Method of this ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY is the most advanced, easiest and most effective means of teaching language ever invented.

Ahead of all schools, it thoroughly and quickly gives command of French. It accustoms English-trained ears to French sounds. It enables those speaking English to express themselves in French.

The Sound-spelling Method of teaching French presents first the English word; then its French equivalent and then, spelled out in English syllables, comes the French word as it sounds to English ears. Exhaustive tests prove this method so simple that even a child readily acquires French with correct pronunciation.

All who go to France should be able to talk to the people in their native language. To do so would save time, money and embarrassment. It might even save lives.

If a man can't talk French in France he must either seek an interpreter or make signs; but with the SOLDIERS-SAILORS DIARY AND ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY annoyance and trouble will vanish. Interchange of ideas will broaden the soldier's horizon and acquirement of the French tongue will be a life-long business and social asset.

Send One to the Boy—Take One Home!

These handsome gold edged books, richly bound in lasting material, stamped in gold, have been made luxurious as well as durable for the reason that they will be treasured in future years as valued possessions.

It is the wish of the newspapers conducting this distribution that all shall obtain the book; but prompt action is necessary because the distribution must be completed at an early date; therefore clip coupon and get copy promptly.

MARQUETTE-WABASH
GAME IS HEADLINER

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, Nov. 27.—With the University of Wisconsin's football season over, the Thanksgiving day game between Marquette and Wabash here will be the most important football game of the day.

Marquette has come through the season undefeated. The Hilltopps have won up a total of 27 points on eight opponents and the only team to score on the Milwaukee students was the "Jockey" team from Great Lakes Naval Training station. The sea fighters scored seven points.

Scores of visitors from up-state are expected to attend the clash with Wabash. Thursday. Coach Ryan has defied his men into the best of shape and will put them on the field with full understanding that the season's record will go unbroken if every man plays hard. The Wabash crew defeated Marquette last year.

Six men of Marquette will play their last game as "Wabash." For three years Delano, Bodine, Fay, Mueck, Heurter and Hayes have banded together to win for the "Wabash" team.

Marquette, however, about the line, has secured Marquette to victory in practically every game this year. John Hayes has won a reputation from his long career as left end. Bodine has been a star of Marquette line, at guard, for three years, and is playing his best game now. Mueck has made himself strongly felt at guard and center, although light has become a favorite center of the pickin'.

"Batts" Hayes, having all but acquired his sheepskin in eagle's claws, is about to retire after a career of full-backing. He has never missed a football practice in the four years.

BELLOIT TEAM DEFEATED
BY EAST SIDE ALLY FIVE

The East Side howlers took their march game from the Beloit Hill team last evening at the East Side alley. A margin of nearly one hundred pins, Bodie lead the counting for the locals with a score of 193.

SERVICE FLAGS FOR ALL
AMERICAN LEAGUE PARKS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Nov. 27.—A "service flag" will fly in every park in the American league next season, in a suggestion made to R. H. Johnson, president of the league, is carried out. Mr. Johnson has taken the plan under consideration.

It has been suggested that the flag be uniform and show the total number of ball players who have left the league to join the forces of Uncle Sam. Some of the clubs may display the flag in the clubhouse to show how many of their members have joined the army.

To date several ball players have been called to the colors, some have entered military service, and others are expecting a call in the next drawing for the national army.

MORRIS MILLER

Following are observations made by a St. Louis scribe on the method pursued by Miller Huggins in managing a ball club: Huggins's ability to develop young players is not the least interesting of his attributes. Rogers Hornsby, Frank Snyder, Jack Cruise, Bill Buckner, Oscar Horstman and Marvin Goodenall are all products of Huggins's ability to develop young players. The first half dozen of these players cost a total of less than $2,000. The St. Louis club of less than $2,000. And why can Huggins develop young players where others fail? Several reasons. Chief among them is that Huggins wins their confidence right from the jump. He plays psychology to the limit. He makes them believe they can play ball and they do play. Huggins digs directly to the recruits' hearts. He appeals to their business sense, and when he gets through with that he puts them on their honor. In all his experience with them he has found but one to flagrantly violate the confidence put in him.

Why do golfers play their game under the patronage of St. Andrew? Is a question frequently asked. The answer, according to an authority, is because certain of St. Andrew's relics were taken to Scotland by St. Rule, and deposited in a church on the present site of the cathedral there, giving the country and the game their patron saint. The sanctity, however, from history and reputed attributes, would appear to be deserving of the patronage of golfers. In the Calendar of Saints it is the son of St. Andrew, and is emblematic of faith and hope, and two other virtues. The stone also invests his worship with truthfulness, which should be a great recommendation.

The camp teams in the east have their full quota of former gridiron heroes and the west is well supplied with former gridiron warriors. The makeup of most of the eastern contingent teams is familiar to most of the football fans, and in the west quite a number of former college stars are found. At Camp Dodge a former Penn line smasher is found, long holes in the forward of the opposition. This is Ben Derr, one of the best line smashers ever developed at Penn. and in the words of Coach Vost of Michigan, "this Derr is the hardest tackler and line biter I have seen in many days." Shiverer, former Cornell halfback, whose brilliant work against Harvard after Charley Barrett had been knocked out a few years ago resulted in the backfield of the Camp Grant team, first dented in four seasons, is at Camp Grant. Costello, one time hero at Georgetown, is directing the play of the Camp Custer team. A player from Sherman is Talbot, Martine, Goebel and Scovill, all former Yale stars. Another well known eastern football player is Edge of Princeton, who is playing with Shiverer in the backfield of the Camp Grant team. Gardner, once with the Carlisle Indians, is captain of the Camp Custer eleven.

The minor leagues have dealt a heavy blow at their players. Hereafter the minor leagues' contract will not contain the five days' release clause. As a result a player in spite of the fact that he has signed for a whole season can be discharged instantly. He cannot appeal to the Fraternity, because that disrupted organization no longer has a working agreement with the major and minor league managers. The plight of the player, therefore, is directly due to the strike for higher salaries last winter and severed the business relations of the Fraternity with Organized Ball.

Mike O'Dowd, the new middleweight champion, will be kept extremely busy if he pays attention to all of his club engagements. Mike O'Dowd, who boxed in Cincinnati not long ago, are hot on O'Dowd's trail. So are Mike Gibbons and Jeff Smith. O'Dowd, who has won a reputation as a boxer, has expressed a willingness to box all comers. If he can decisively whip the four men named above there can be no doubt as to his right to the middleweight title.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Nov. 27.—There was a home talent play given last evening by the Whitewater players at the Strand Theatre for the benefit of the organization of City Clubs. The title of the play was, "Brown's in Town," a comedy in three acts. The following is the cast:

Mr. Preston, Spencer Fish
Mr. Preston, E. Johnson
Lettie Preston, Dick's wife

Arthur Howard, Mrs. E. Shepard
Suzanne Dacre, Mrs. E. Shepard
Primrose Johnson, a colored cook

Frederic Von Hellenback, Maria Callahan
Pollack, the gardener

The football game will be played here Thursday afternoon, at the Normal field, the proceeds of which go for the benefit of Company K, now at Waco, Texas. Two teams have been organized, one from the condensary, and one from Coxes' Grocery, including some former high school and normal school stars. Quite a bit of rivalry exists between the teams and as they starve for the quarter-back position, the line-up for the condensary team will be Mumma, full; R. Roe, right half; L. H. Meers, left half; C. Malone, quarter; M. Harty, center; D. Q. Jones, full back; J. Klann, right guard; J. Monahan, left tackle; H. Hefty, right tackle; A. Lorry, right end; P. Larkin, left end. The Coxes line-up will be: Will Fricker, full; A. Wright, right half; K. Jones, left half; J. Dorr, quarter; P. Jolliffe, center; B. Messerschmidt, right guard; F. Chamberlain, left guard; R. Ardel, left tackle; J. Callahan, right tackle; G. Benzer, left end; F. Higgins, right end. The game will be called at 2:30, and ladies free.

Mrs. E. Johnson accompanies her daughter, Mrs. Adolbert Grant, to Beloit today, for a two weeks' visit.

Bill Dorr is home from McHenry this week.

The Findley brothers have returned from Glidden, Wis., where they have been hunting deer, and brought home two. They left Albert Young, Leon Sprengle and Henry Young in camp there, to remain until the last of the week.

Mrs. John McLean is spending a few days at Ripon.

Arthur Brady was up from Camp Grant, Sunday, to visit his parents.

Miss Ina Schuler of Janesville, was the Sunday guest of Miss Alice Marsh.

Mrs. C. W. Peterson has returned from a visit to her brother in Dayton, Ohio.

Evansville News.

Evansville, Nov. 27.—The soul of Sumner H. Frost passed on to the realms eternal, Monday morning, November 26, 1917. His death came as a distinct shock to his many friends and acquaintances, for very few knew that he was ill. It was only within the past two weeks that he had complained of feeling poorly, but on Sunday and during the night he seemed quite ill, death occurring suddenly Sunday morning. Sumner H. Frost was born at Hancock, Vermont, March 18, 1888. His parents' names were Harvey and Mary Frost, and their family consisted of three girls and this one son. But one member of this family survives him, a sister, Mrs. William Henry Johnson of this city. He was united in marriage to Miss Emma Powers in 1915. To this union four children were born: Miss Ethel Frost of this city, Mrs. Fred Chapin of Brooklyn, Frank Frost and Mrs. Jos. Blaine, both of Chicago, and they with the widow, survive him.

Mr. Frost was one of the pioneers of Wisconsin, having come west in 1907, to a farm in Union. Several years ago, he with his family, left the farm, coming to Evansville to live. The funeral will be held at his late home on Church street, Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, Dr. Wm. Pearce, officiating.

"All the Comforts of Home." Last evening the play given by local talent for the benefit of the Evansville chapter of the American Red Cross, delighted the huge audience assembled from start to finish. For the house was packed and judging by all appearances, there will be another large audience this evening when the play is to be repeated. The plot of the play is a good one, full of swing and movement, and abounding in many mirth-provoking climaxes. There are seventeen persons in the cast and these seventeen never let the interest flag for an instant. Each one seems to keep the balance of the entire play. The young people taking the several characters have been rehearsing for some time past under the very capable direction of Rev. William P. McDermott, and last evening's performance showed the finished result of their labor. Each and every one was splendid in the role assigned to them and each seemed especially adapted to the character they portrayed. Messrs. Harley Smith and Earl Fellows as Alfred Hastings and Tom McDow, had the two difficult roles for the were on the stage for the most of the time during the four acts, and they were "right there" all the time. They filled their roles easily and with a flourish. The parts assigned Roy Reckord, Miss Pauline

CAMP SHERMAN HAS ONE OF BEST CANTONMENT TEAMS

The all-star football team at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O.

Collins, Miss Florence Holcomb as Mr. and Mrs. Bender and daughter Evangeline, were especially good and showed some clever acting. So also did Bert Holmes and Spencer Pullen as Christopher Dabney and Judson Longhorn. Miss Ida Heron as Piffi Ontonaki, the opera singer, was splendid also. It would be difficult indeed to find any in the cast of whom special mention could not be made, for they were all splendid, and so perfectly did they work together that they made the entire production strong and well balanced, lacking nothing in finish and polish.

Rev. John Kramer of Bristol, Wis., is a guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Pearce. Mrs. Almond Libby is ill at her home on Park street. The Misses Marie Loudden and Helen Blackmun visited Camp Grant, Saturday.

His Ambition.
"I'll be glad when I get big enough to wash my own face," said little Bobby, as his mother finished the operation. "Why so, dear?" she asked. "Cause then I won't wash it," he replied.

PAVEMENT ON MAIN STREET COMPLETED

Will Not be Open for Traffic for Two Weeks.—Portion Between Car Tracks Must be Completed.

Final work on the brick pavement on South Main street was done today by the workmen. Both sides of the street are now finished and all that remains to be done before the street is opened for the traffic of the public is the laying of the brick between the street car tracks.

The street, however, will not be ready for use for two weeks as the new pavement must have time to set. The work on the portion of the street between the street car tracks will be started immediately.

With the arrival of materials on schedule time the pavement on South Franklin street will be completed by Saturday. A car of granite has been ordered and it should be here ready for use on Friday morning. But two days will be needed to complete the work remaining.
